It is not only Jews and Christians that the Lord will gather unto himself. He will also gather people from all nations - all those who are willing to submit to his loving care. The readings for this Sunday, especially the first and the gospel readings are closely related. Both bear a very strong message of hope - the restoration and reunion of the people of God.

Isaiah, in the first reading prophesied about the return of God’s People to Jerusalem; an assurance that God will fulfill his promises to us. Here, the prophet makes three important points: That God will soon fulfill his promise of restoring us to himself. He will surely do this to show his saving power. Secondly, the prophet speaks to the fact that God has a purpose for this gathering. This is for the glory of his name. In order words, every work he does has the remote aim of giving Him glory. Lastly, in addition to gathering us to Himself, God will also make us his ambassadors to other nations. This also underscores the missionary nature of our call. God initiates it, and then uses us to accomplish it. Hence, God commissions us to: “Go out to the whole world and proclaim the good news.” This good news is that God will restore our lost glory, for the sake of his own glory.

In the gospel, Jesus answers a very difficult question: Sir, will there be only a few saved? His response was very simple, smart and of course, an intelligent one: “Try your best to enter by the narrow door...! Rather than occupy oneself with arguments about the number of those to be saved, it is better to work hard in order to be saved. Through this, Jesus reminds us that the invitation to His Feast is open to all. However, each person must struggle to be there. We must do what we have to do by playing our roles well. This is the only way we can be guaranteed a place in the feast of the Kingdom of God.

In other words, it is necessary for us as individuals to make effort to be at the glorious gathering of the saints. Hence, Paul admonishes us to: “...Work out your salvation with fear and trembling” (Phil 2, 12). This means that we have to put ourselves together by making use of the available opportunity in order to get ourselves prepared at all times. We are therefore called to be focused and disciplined in order to be part of the great gathering of the saints.
