Today we called Lazarus a ‘Down-and-out’. From time to time all of us encounter people like that. I think it is true to say that most of us find such encounter disturbing and humbling. We find these encounters disturbing because they arouse within us conflicting feelings of pity, discomfort, anger, and guilt. We find them humbling because when we look at them, we realise that we are too poor, only in different way. Down-and-out are poor materially. We are poor in compassion, poor in our willingness to help, poor in our capacity to love. In other words, poor at heart. When we think of poverty, we tend to think only of material poverty. But there is a worse kind of poverty – poverty of the heart.

Dives and Lazarus lived in different worlds. Dives was dressed in purple robes; Lazarus was dressed in rags. Dives ate splendidly every day; Lazarus didn’t eat at all. Dives was healthy; Lazarus was covered with sores. Dives lived in a palace; Lazarus lived in the streets.

In fact, to say that they lived in different worlds would be an understatement. They lived in opposite worlds. Dives was in an earthly paradise, Lazarus was in an earthly hell. And yet, though their respective worlds were as different as day and night, they lay side by side.

Dives could easily have entered Lazarus’ lonely, desperate world, and made contact with him. But he didn’t. He shut him out of his palace and out of his heart. He failed to identify him as a fellow human being, much less a brother with whom he shared a common humanity.

Lazarus was about as poor as any man could be. Yet, in a sense, Dives was even poorer. How could that be? Lazarus was suffering from material poverty. Dives was suffering from poverty of heart. His heart was devoid of compassion and love. Even street dogs had more compassion than he.

A person like Dives would be poor even if he/she owned the whole world. The rich are wounded by their riches, just as the poor are wounded by their poverty. Nowhere in the parable is it suggested that Dives’ wealth was ill gotten or that Lazarus was a victim of his oppression. If Dives was brought before a court, he could in all truth have protested, ‘I did nothing wrong.’ What then is his sin? His sin is one of omission.

Dives was condemned, not because he was rich, but because he didn’t show compassion to the poor man. Sin is not just about doing wrong, it is also about not doing good. Mother Teresa said: ‘The greatest evil in the world today is the terrible indifference towards one’s neighbour which is so widespread.’

The only riches worth having is the richness of the heart. Jesus compared the heart to a storehouse. If we wish to know how wealthy we are, let’s not waste our time counting possessions, or looking into our bank accounts. Let’s look rather into the storehouse of our heart.

Do you want to know what real poverty is? It is never having a big thought or a generous impulse. To close one’s heart is to begin to die; to open it is to begin to live.

Archbishop Mark has a message for you

I've had quite a week. From Sunday to Tuesday I was in Townsville for the assembly of the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Catholic Council which drew together about 150 Indigenous and non-Indigenous people from all over Australia. I couldn't stay for the whole week because of commitments in Brisbane, one of which was preaching at St John's Cathedral for the Service of Thanksgiving for Elizabeth II, Queen of Australia. I had watched the Queen's remarkable funeral and she was much on my mind through the week, given how deeply she had settled into the psyche of so many of us who could remember no other monarch. Seen from one angle the Queen seemed disarmingly ordinary, but from another angle she seemed quite extraordinary, leaving a legacy of selfless service that will long outlive her. Some Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people weren't as enthusiastic about the Queen or as positive about the Crown's contribution in this country. Given the trauma they have suffered since the British laid claim to the continent, that isn't surprising. Yet some of the virtues seen so clearly in Queen Elizabeth will be required on the long and difficult path of reconciliation – humility and resilience together with a sense of service, duty and humour. And then there was her Christian faith which seemed to frame everything else.

MINISTRY ADDRESSES AT MASSES THIS WEEKEND.

Children’s Liturgy– Jocelyn Lysaght.

Our children’s liturgy gives our youngest parishioners the opportunity to come together during Mass to listen and reflect on the Word of God and share with each other in a way that makes sense to them. Children’s liturgy is available currently during both masses on the first weekend of the month, and we welcome anyone with a calling, to join this fulfilling ministry (all resources are included, just need passionate people to lead).

Safeguarding Children & Vulnerable Adults– Tony Keegan for Marie Lynch/Cecilia Denny. The Archdiocese of Brisbane holds that children, young people and vulnerable adults are a gift from God with an intrinsic right to dignity of life, respect and security from physical and emotional harm. They are to be treasured, nurtured and safeguarded.

Each Parish in the Archdiocese of Brisbane has a Local Safeguarding Representative (Marie Lynch/ Cecilia Denny) who is responsible for: Making sure that the whole Parish is aware of the importance of safeguarding children and vulnerable adults; Promoting safe practices including articulating for others what is appropriate and inappropriate behaviour; and Assisting the Parish Priest and staff in the implementation of the Archdiocesan Safeguarding Children and Vulnerable Adults Policy in the Parish. The Archdiocesan Safeguarding Children & Vulnerable Adults Prevention & Protection Policy can be found at: <https://brisbanecatholic.org.au/support/safeguard>

Funeral Hospitality– Supporting families in their time of need to gather and share a cup of tea after funerals. Volunteers wanted to support this ministry. Please contact the Parish office to register your interest.

WORK PLACE HEALTH & SAFETY

For all Parishioners information, as you would be aware we do have accidents within the Parish precinct from time to time. There are incident reporting forms in the Church Work room cupboard (with the first aid kit). These are to be completed, usually by those attending the patient, the day of the incident and delivered to the Parish office. In line with Archdiocesan WH&S policy, this is mandatory WH&S reporting. For St John Bosco Church the process is the same. Thank you.
